

Art Club Spring Art Show goes virtual!

Thursday, March 26, 2020

In light of CDC guidelines and those of various other governmental agencies, the PebbleCreek Art Club Spring Art Show, scheduled for March 22 in the Chianti Room, had to be canceled. But being artists, and therefore very creative, the club members regrouped and decided to go on with the show -- online! Club President Betty Jean Kennedy, Art Club web master, Susan Gleason, and show coordinators Kathy Craig and Gale Baldasare, have been working overtime to organize and post online the 96 works of art featured in the show. The works were created in many mediums including oil, acrylic, watercolor, colored pencil, pastel, drawing, fine art photography, 3D, and mixed media. The show goes live, Sunday, March 29, on the Art Club website: <https://www.pcartclubshows.org>. The site includes all the show entries, a chance to peruse the raffle baskets and purchase raffle tickets, and the opportunity to vote for your favorite piece of art. Additionally, if you are interested in purchasing any artwork listed for sale, there is a "Note to Artist" button on each artwork item that will direct you to the artist's email address. The show will also be judged by three independent judges and prizes awarded. "The Art Club has been holding its annual Spring Art Show since 1998," said Art Club Vice President Sylvia Armstrong, "and this is the first time we've ever put it online. We're hoping we can reach more people than ever before and impress them with the caliber and talent displayed by our artists. If this show goes as well as I think it will, we may do more shows online!"
